REPLY COMMENTS OF LEGEND COMMUNICATIONS OF WYOMING, L.L.C.

Legend Communications of Wyoming, L.L.C. ("Legend"), permittee of Channel 252C2, Thermopolis, Wyoming (FCC File No. BPH-19971021MC) (the "Station"), by its attorneys, timely submits these comments in response to the comments filed by Lovcom, Inc. ("Lovcom"), licensee of Stations KROE(AM), KZWY(FM) and KYTI(FM), Sheridan, Wyoming, filed with the Commission on October 18, 2000, in the above-captioned proceeding. These reply comments are filed in support of Legend's above-referenced Petition for Rule Making (the "Petition") requesting amendment of Section 73.202(b), the FM Table of Allotments, to substitute Channel 252C1 for Channel 252C2 at Thermopolis, Wyoming; to move the allotment from Thermopolis to Story, Wyoming; and to modify the Station's construction permit to specify operation on Channel 252C1 at Story.

At its essence, Lovcom's sole contention in this proceeding is that Story is not a community for allotment purposes.¹ However, as demonstrated conclusively below, this contention is incorrect. The Commission defines a "community" for allotment purposes as a "geographically identifiable population grouping." Revision of FM Assignment Policies and Procedures, 90 FCC2d 88, 101 (1982). The Commission has further explained that "[g]enerally, if a community is incorporated or is listed in the U.S. Census, that is sufficient to demonstrate its [community] status." Arnoldsburg, West Virginia, 15 FCC Rcd 9210, 9211-12 (2000). The Census Bureau, U.S. Department of Commerce, recently updated its list of U.S. Census Designated Places ("CDP") by adding Story, Wyoming as a CDP in the 2000 Census (FIPS Code 73615). Thus, according to the well-established principles explained in Arnoldsburg, because Story is listed in the U.S. Census, there is a presumption it is a community for allotment purposes. Story is also listed in the 2000 Rand McNally Commercial Road Atlas as having a population of 700 persons, and appears on the Wyoming road map.

Moreover, as previously explained by Legend, Story possesses numerous other characteristics which demonstrate that it is a community for purposes of this allotment. To establish that a locality is a "community" for allotment purposes, a petitioner must prove that a locality has "social, economic, cultural or governmental indicia" which identify it as a community. See Avon, North Carolina, 14 FCC Rcd 3939, 3940 (1999). It is sufficient to demonstrate that the locality is "commonly regarded as a distinct group. This can be proven by the 'testimony of local residents or by objective indications of the existence of a common perception that a locality's populace constitutes a distinct geographical population.'" Implementation of BC Docket No. 80-90 to Increase the Availability of FM Broadcast Assignments, 5 FCC Rcd 934 (1990) ("Semora, North Carolina") (internal citation omitted). The Commission observed in Semora, North Carolina that "[e]xamples of objective indications of community status include the existence of political, commercial, social and religious organizations and services in the community. Another indication of community status is 'whether the residents function as and conceive of themselves as residents of a community, around which their interests coalesce.'" Id. (footnote and internal citation omitted).

Under the standard which has been established by the Commission, Story is clearly a community deserving of its first local aural transmission service and FM channel allotment. Story is geographically distinct from neighboring towns and is not a suburb of any other community. Moreover, there are clearly social, economic and cultural indicia directly and exclusively identifiable to the Story community. There are numerous commercial establishments and community organizations which directly serve the residents of Story, and Story's residents consider Story to be a separate and independent community.

Lovcom's position rests exclusively upon statements made in an affidavit from Kim Love, the president of Lovcom, Inc. (the "Love Affidavit"), which purports to show that Story is not separate from Sheridan and Buffalo. As is evident, the operation of the Station as proposed from Story would create new competition for Lovcom's three Sheridan stations, and it would serve Lovcom's purposes to forstall the initiation of the proposed service. However, many of the specifics of those factors which are cited in the Love Affidavit are contradicted in the attached affidavit of Albert "Smokey" Wildeman (the "Wildeman Affidavit," attached as Exhibit A). The Wildeman Affidavit is based on Mr. Wildeman's personal knowledge of Story, and also reflects the responses to questionnaires/surveys of 19 residents and employees of businesses located in Story undertaken by Mr. Wildeman in preparing this response (the "Questionnaires," attached to the Wildeman Affidavit). The combined effect of these materials is to firmly establish that Story is a community consisting of numerous commercial establishments and community service organizations; that its residents have a strong local identity; and that Story is deserving of the requested FM allotment as the community's first local transmission service.

The Wildeman Affidavit and the Questionnaires identify at least 10 businesses and five government offices located within Story, including hotel/motel accommodations, restaurants, a grocery store, a post office, a library, and several other retail businesses serving the population of Story. Exhibit A at 1-3; Questionnaires at 4-22. Contrary to the claims in the Love Affidavit, the residents and employees of Story businesses surveyed by Mr. Wildeman confirmed that their businesses are open year-round and have mailing addresses located in Story. In addition, those surveyed confirmed that Story has a volunteer fire department, an elementary school and places of worship. Moreover, those surveyed included ten owners or managers of businesses in Story with a total of 85 employees, 74 of whom reside in Story, demonstrating that Story does not merely consist of "retirees [and] residents who commute to work in either Sheridan or Buffalo, Wyoming, and second home part-year residents," as alleged by Lovcom. Exhibit A at 3; Questionnaires at 4-22.

The Wildeman Affidavit and the Questionnaires also confirm that Story has its own zip code ("82842") and telephone exchange ("683"). Exhibit A at 2-3. There is a volunteer fire department in Story which is staffed by local residents and which applies for its own grants and conducts fundraisers to cover operating costs to serve Story. Exhibit A at 2. Finally, Story has its own Lions Club and the Story Women's Club, a park with playground equipment and several youth camps, Exhibit A at 3, reflective of recreational, social and cultural life centered in Story. Those residents surveyed by Mr. Wildeman indicated clearly that they believe Story is not a suburb of Sheridan, but an independent community, Exhibit A at 3, one that they feel will benefit from its own radio station.

Many of the claims made by Lovcom are directly disputed by the Wildeman Affidavit and the Questionnaires.² For example, contrary to Lovcom's allegations concerning the "Wagon Box Resort," Charles Schlesselman, Manager of the Wagon Box Inn, indicates in his Questionnaire that the six cabins at the Wagon Box, and its lodge capable of serving 30 people, are in fact open year-round. Exhibit A at 1; Questionnaires at 7. Similarly, the Wildeman Affidavit refutes the claim that the general store and the deli are not separate businesses, even though located in the same building, Exhibit A at 2. The Wildeman Affidavit describes generally a self-contained community. See also the pictures attached to the Wildeman Affidavit.

With its population approaching 700 persons, Story is larger than other places in Wyoming that have recently been held to be communities by the Commission. See Kaycee and ² Lovcom contends that the Petition is misleading and contains misrepresentations. In the course of the initial research conducted for the Petition, research was done through a variety of resources, including the Internet; but, while some of the specifics in the Petition may have included inadvertent errors in certain respects (e.g., representing the presence of more than one attorney in Story), the information was not materially wrong and Legend had no intent to mislead the Commission. Indeed, the information submitted with these comments confirms unquestionably that Story is a community deserving of its own local station.

Basin, Wyoming, 2000 FCC LEXIS 3953 (DA 00-1688, released July 28, 2000) (finding that Kaycee, with a population of 256, is a community for allotment purposes); Shoshoni and Dubois, Wyoming, 2000 FCC LEXIS 4138 (DA 00-1754, released August 4, 2000) (finding that Shoshoni, population 497, is a community); Hudson and Ten Sleep, Wyoming, 2000 FCC LEXIS 4143 (DA 00-1770, released August 4, 2000) (finding that Ten Sleep, population 311, is a community). The Commission has also found community status in the case of other communities with smaller populations than Story. See Semora, North Carolina, 5 FCC Rcd at 934 (finding community status for Semora, although not a CDP, with a population of only 150).

Story possesses the community indicia relied upon by the Commission in cases where community status has been approved. For example, in Semora, North Carolina, the Commission agreed that Semora is a community because Semora has its own post office, a local volunteer fire department, a civic organization, two churches, several stores, two restaurants, a night club, and is not "on the fringe of a larger urban area." 5 FCC Rcd at 935. The Commission explained that "[w]hile the amount of commercial activity in the town is limited, the Commission has never established a minimum amount of commercial activity necessary to qualify an area as a community. Furthermore, the fact that persons from outside of Semora may participate in commercial activities in the community does not foreclose a finding of community status . . ." Id. In the present situation, the existence of a Story community and commercial activity is not only supported by the attached exhibits, but it is further supported by the existence of web pages and brochures for various businesses located in Story, demonstrating the existence of a commercial environment that is alive and well in this community. See Exhibit B. Story, like Semora, satisfies the Commission's test for community status.

In another case, the Commission found community status for an unincorporated and non-CDP location with a population of only 140 persons, based upon the observation that the community had a post office, a zip code, an elementary school, 16 businesses, and was located on maps. See Arnoldsburg, West Virginia, supra, 15 FCC Rcd at 9212. The Commission stressed the fact that Arnoldsburg was a "geographical population grouping 'with a sense of unity and involvement in community concerns as shown by evidence that the residents function as and conceive of themselves as a community around which their interests coalesce.'" Id. Story has strong qualifications as a community in comparison with this and the other cited locations. These attributes compel a finding of community status for Story.

Indeed, rather than supporting Lovcom's contentions, the FCC cases Lovcom cites in its comments actually reinforces the conclusion that Story is a community. In three of the cited cases, the Commission consistently explained that the existence of a community for allotment purposes may be established by specifically identifying local businesses with their street addresses and by demonstrating that these businesses are intended to serve the residents of the community, as opposed to the surrounding area. See Lupton, Michigan, 11 FCC Rcd 14428, 14429 (1996); Pleasant Dale, Nebraska, 14 FCC Rcd 18893, 18895 (1999); and Littlefield, Arizona, 15 FCC Rcd 10263, 10264 (2000). The Questionnaires amply provide this information. Furthermore, to support Story's qualification for community status, Legend has provided the names of at least five establishments containing the name "Story" -- the Story Pines Inn Motel, the Story Fire Department, the Story Elementary School, the Story Community Branch Library, and the Waldorf "A" Story Restaurant -- as well as local civic and social clubs -- the Lions Club of Story and the Story Women's Club -- factors given considerable weight by the Commission in assessing the extent to which local residents conceive of themselves as a community. Compare Kanarraville, Utah, 14 FCC Rcd 15962, 15963 (1999) (finding that petitioner could have bolstered its claim of community status by providing "the names of any businesses which contain 'Kanarraville' in their names") with Exhibit A at 1-2; Questionnaires at 9, 13, 18, 19 and 21.

Finally, as the Wildeman Affidavit demonstrates, residents of Story have expressed a need for more localized dissemination of emergency information. Exhibit A at 3. Although Story currently receives signals from stations located in nearby cities and towns, such as Sheridan or Buffalo, these stations are not charged with the primary responsibility of serving the community needs of Story. The Commission has considered the addition of a first local aural service transmission to an area as benefitting the public interest, especially when it will provide an "outlet for local self-expression and increased health and safety," which is currently lacking in the Story Community. Hudson and Ten Sleep, Wyoming, 2000 FCC LEXIS 4143. The allotment of a first local service is a significant allotment priority. See Revision of FM Assignment Policies and Procedure, 90 FCC2d 88, 101 (1982) (noting that second local reception service and first local transmission service are given equal weight).

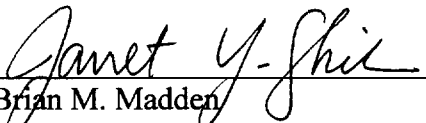

In conclusion, Story is a community for allotment purposes. It is a recognized CDP, with a geographically identifiable population grouping that is distinct from other towns and locations. A community nexus clearly exists between the social, economic and governmental organizations located in Story and the residents of Story. Individuals with whom Mr. Wildeman and his wife spoke, as set forth in attached exhibits, confirm that businesses, civic organizations, and community services exist in Story, and are benefitting the local residents of Story. Lovcom's assertions to the contrary must be rejected in view of the material which is attached to these comments.

The reallocation of the Station to Story will result in a preferential arrangement of allotments, will benefit the public interest by providing the community with its first local aural transmission service and will provide the citizens of Story with greater access to their own local and emergency information. For these reasons, Legend reiterates its request that the Commission substitute Channel 252C1 for Channel 252C2 at Thermopolis and reallocate the channel to Story. Legend will promptly file an application to modify the Station's facilities accordingly and will thereafter construct and operate the Station as proposed.

Respectfully submitted,

AFFIDAVIT

I, Albert "Smokey" Wildeman, swear under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my personal knowledge and belief:

1. I am the General Manager of Stations KLGT-FM and KBBS-AM in Buffalo, Wyoming and owned by Legend Communications of Wyoming, L.L.C. ("Legend"), which has requested that the FCC upgrade and reallocate Channel 252C1 to Story, Wyoming. Legend is the permittee of the authorization to be amended by this action.

2. I have reviewed the filing made by Lovcom, Inc. with the FCC to object to the plan to move the new FM Station to Story ("Lovcom Comments"). On October 25, 2000, with my wife, Judy Wildeman, Office Manager of KLGT-FM and KBBS-AM, I visited Story to speak with a sampling of local business owners and residents about the community and the proposed radio station.

3. I drafted questionnaires which the residents and business owners, managers and employees we met were asked to read and complete. The attached questionnaires were completed by these individuals voluntarily and without my influence. The following are the businesses located in Story which we visited personally on October 25, 2000:

- A. The Balkenbush Real Estate Company, which has two employees. Both employees are residents of Story, and the business is open year-round.
- B. The T.L.C. Greenhouse, which has one year-round employee (the owner/operator) and 11 seasonal employees. T.L.C. Greenhouse is open year-round.
- C. The Alpine Excavation Company, which has three employees (two are owners/operators). All three employees are residents of Story and the business is open year-round.
- D. The Wagon Box Inn Restaurant, Campground and Cabins. This business employs 24 people, all of whom are residents of Story. I spoke to the Manager of the Wagon Box Inn and he informed me that the Wagon Box Inn has six cabins, a lodge that holds 30 people, and is open year-round.
- E. The Tunnel Inn Restaurant, which employs 18 people. All employees of the Tunnel Inn Restaurant are residents of Story and the restaurant is open year-round.
- F. The Story Pines Inn, which has six units and employs two employees, both of whom are residents of Story. The Story Pines Inn rented approximately 400 rooms in the past year and is open year-round.

- G. Electronic Classroom Furniture, which employs six people, all of whom are residents of Story. This store is open year-round.
- H. The Lodore Supper Club Restaurant, which has a staff of four full-time employees, all of whom are residents of Story. The Lodore Supper Club also employs a part-time waitress depending on the season. This restaurant is open year-round.
- I. The Waldorf "A" Story Restaurant and Deli. The Waldorf "A" Story has eight employees, all of whom are residents of Story. This restaurant and deli is open year-round.
- J. The Piney Creek General Store, Inc., which employs six people, all of whom are residents of Story. The store is open year-round. The Waldorf "A" Story and the Piney Creek General Store, Inc. are two separate businesses located in the same building, but are independently owned, have different managers, different tax identification numbers, and are clearly two separate and distinct businesses.
- K. The Wyoming Game and Fish Department Fish Hatchery, which is open year-round and employs three people, all residing in Story.
- L. The Story Community Branch Library, which employs two people, both residing in Story. The library also has four to five volunteers, each residing in Story, and is open year-round on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

4. Also on October 25, 2000, I visited the Story Volunteer Fire Department, where I spoke with Jeff Huggens, Fire Chief. The Fire Department has its own fire district located in Story, applies for its own grants, conducts fundraisers to cover operating costs, and includes 16 volunteer firefighters. All of the firefighters, except one, reside in Story.

5. I personally visited the Story Elementary School on October 25, 2000, and spoke with a secretary at the school. The school employs six full-time employees, two of whom reside in Story. The school includes 22 students in Kindergarten through 5th grade.

6. I also personally visited the Story U.S. Post Office and spoke with Harold W. O'Donnell, the Postmaster. The Story Branch of the U.S. Post Office employs two people, one of whom resides in Story. The Post Office is open year-round. Story has its own distinct zip code ("82842").

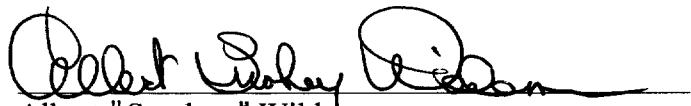

7. Based upon my visit to Story, I can confirm that Story has its own distinct telephone exchange ("683"). I noted signs for the Story Lions Club, the Story Women 's Club, a local park with playground equipment, the Thorn Rider Youth Camp, and a Presbyterian Church camp. Several photographs of these signs and businesses are attached. I observed or was told by the people with whom I spoke that there are three or four churches in Story. I also spoke with four Story residents, two of whom run businesses from their homes; in my visit to Alpine Excavation, I was told that there were a number of such "house businesses" among Story residents.

8. Overall, my wife and I spoke with ten businesses, employing a total of 85 people, of whom 74 reside in Story. We also spoke with government employees and local residents, and spent a considerable amount of time driving around the community. The people we met clearly spoke of Story as its own town, not a part of Sheridan or any other community. I feel that we met a good, representative cross-section of the people who live and work in Story. My impression of the area was that in many respects Story functions as its own, self-contained community, and the photographs which I took confirm that impression -- there is an "established" feel about Story, and a sense of a civic, residential and business identity about the community. After visiting Story, I strongly disagree with the comments made by Lovcom, Inc., in its filing, and in some instances those statements were just plain wrong: for example, directly contrary to the Lovcom assertion, in my discussions with Charles Schlesselman, the Manager of the Wagon Box Inn, I was told that its cabins are open all year-round.

9. The people with whom we spoke were receptive to the opportunity of having their own radio station in Story. In fact, we were told by several residents and the Fire Chief that, in part because Story is a separate community not located close to any large cities, in adverse weather conditions, such as heavy snow or rain storms, the local telephone service and electrical power fails, and the residents have no ready means to publicize emergency information. The establishment of a local radio station could help greatly in such circumstances.

The foregoing is true and correct, and based upon matters of which I have personal knowledge or upon my interviews with local residents and people I met in my visit to Story.

Signed under penalty of perjury this 3 day of November, 2000.
